Fact Sheet

THE ROYAL HORSE SHOW

Gallop over to The Royal Horse Show where equestrian royalty, Olympians, and some of the best competitors in the world will be on site this year to vie for over $670,000 in prize money.

The most prestigious and important indoor equestrian event in North America, The Royal Horse Show continues to captivate audiences 88 years after its inception. This year's horse show is no doubt going to dazzle audiences like never before with the presence of world famous riders, competing in all three of the Olympic disciplines: Show Jumping, Dressage and our own Indoor Eventing.

Highlights of The Royal Horse Show:

NEW FOR 2010 – Horse Hockey. On Saturday, November 6, The Royal brings together horses and hockey for an exhilarating new feature. Like playing polo, but with a hockey stick, Horse Hockey is sure to entertain. Hockey legends such as Darryl Sittler and Rick Vaive will test their hockey skills on horseback. One event to be sure not to miss!

Show Jumping. Show Jumping involves horse and rider working to clear jumps up to an impressive 1.6 metres (5.2 feet) high. The courses include a variety of jumping obstacles including uprights, spreads and combinations, with many turns and changes of direction. The goal for horse and rider is to get through the course in the allotted time, with time faults being assessed for exceeding the time allowance. Should a horse refuse to make a jump, or knock down a jump, jumping faults are also incurred.

Dressage. This truly unique equestrian competition challenges horse and rider to work together in a seamless display of what has been referred to as “ballet on horseback”. Horse and rider will be judged on their ability to achieve the precise athleticism and artistic harmony required for upper-level dressage, including the most popular freestyle to music competitions.

Indoor Eventing. Traditionally an outdoor sport, eventing combines the elegance of dressage with the accuracy and scope of stadium jumping. Eventing throws a third task into the mix – the jumping of solid cross-country obstacles including hedges, banks, walls, ditches, and through open water, all at the gallop. Now in its fourth year, Indoor Eventing at The Royal is a “hybrid” mix of cross-country and stadium jumping, and has been won by the same competitor for the past three years. Competition will be stiff this year to crown a new champion.

$100,000 FEI World Cup Qualifier Grand Prix. It takes a very special horse and rider to win the biggest, most difficult class of the week. This event will feature the largest jumps, the best horses and the most prize money of the week. Last year, Canada's very own Olympic Medalist Jill Henselwood took home first place. With prestige and World Cup Standing points, the stakes are high as everyone vies for this year's win.

Canine Equine Challenge. In an event that's always a crowd favourite, horses and selected President's Choice SuperDogs are matched up to compete in the International Canine/Equine Open Jumper Challenge. In this relay race the dog/horse team speeds through their respective obstacle course, shooting for the best combined time and fewest penalties. $15,000 goes to the top dog – and horse, of course.

$75,000 Ricoh Big Ben Challenge. All week leads up to this final event named in memory of Ian Millar's celebrated horse Big Ben. Riders will be competing for the $75,000 purse this year. No one wants to win this class more than Ian Millar himself.

The Royal's Woof & Hoof. The final Sunday of The Royal offers a brand new horse show sure to dazzle people of all ages. The Royal Woof & Hoof begins at 1:00PM on Sunday, November 14th and will be hosted by start of CBC's Heartland, Amber Marshall. The show will feature Celebrity Cattle Sorting with Wendel Clark and Hayley Wickenheiser, trick riding, the One Arm Bandit, mini chuckwagons, dogs, clowns and more!

Fun Facts

- A newborn female horse is called a filly, while its male counterpart is known as a colt. These young horses are born without teeth, and have to grow their milk teeth – the same as our baby teeth. When the horse is about three or four years old, the milk teeth are replaced by permanent teeth.
- On average, a horse eats between 14 and 28 pounds of food per day, depending on their height. Horses can also drink up to ten gallons of water per day.
- The world's horse population is estimated at 75,000,000, with over 350 different breeds.
- Most foals are born at night under the cover of darkness, to hide them from possible danger.
- The Royal has over 2000 annual horse entries who have competed all season to qualify for The Royal Horse Show.
